with house infusions (think citrus or boozy amaro). There's a solid selection of classics, but the favorites at the moment are the lavender scones, date fudge and lemon-basil lemon cookies, which are all year round. Coloma sells some of his baked goods wholesale, including whole grain sourdough, almond and walnut cookies, cookies with seasonal ingredients and his take on macarons. Some highlights include the chewy Christmas Biscotti with confit chestnuts and almond cake balls, filled with chocolate and orange. Coloma is also selling some older products that are new to the business, like his honey and cardamom scones. The team has plans to sell their products at markets and events across the US and internationally, but they're starting with the Bay Area, where the business is based. Stay tuned for more details on their local street team, as well as their retail expansion plans. 2637 Valencia Street, at 26th, SF Squirrel.
