Tag: Google Google has announced an update for Android users, changing the search system to take advantage of mobile-style voice search. Users will now be able to speak to their device and it will respond with search results, or a set of actions that may suit them better. This voice search feature, which is rolling out over the next few days, will be available on all Android phones with 4.3 or later. While the change will benefit users who only have access to a mobile device, the voice search feature also works on web searches, meaning the same results can be spoken to on a tablet or PC as well. As Android phones have become more capable, voice search has also become more common and is now the first thing many people say when they turn on their device.

... to be expected, most likely; most cell phones aren't designed to be landscape, most new phone models come with OS-es that run in landscape-mode, and most people do not use their cell phones for things other than voice calls, text messages, and maybe a few games. These phones already have portrait and landscape mode implementations, and usually the UI is designed to be in portrait. So in short, you'll have to choose between keeping it in landscape or switching to portrait. ...for a better user experience, people can personalize their phones by creating themes for their phones using the Sony Ericsson Themes Creator. This applications allows them to create themes easily and quickly using the built-in music player on their phones to create a theme, the backgrounds come from their own personal photos or photos that they upload to the phone. This application is easy to use and a must have for all Sony Ericsson owners. As long as you have a 4.0.3 (Ice Cream Sandwich) or a 4.0.4 (Jelly Bean) or any newer version of Android installed on your phone, then you can install the application. Once the application is installed, you can begin
