If you are not in the same office, you can easily connect with team members online or via audio and video conference. After only 3 months in online collaboration business, Sococo was already providing thousands of customers with voice, video and screen sharing tools for free. "The Sococo team took us up on our request to build a business that was truly cross platform, instead of being Windows and Mac only. They also made it easy to build websites in Sococo's Visual Builder. On top of that, the team is very responsive and quick to answer any questions that we had." "Our company was not looking for a new tool at the time. But when we found out about Sococo, we were so impressed with the product that we knew we had found the right solution. The easy of setup and the fast web-based dashboard were the main reasons why we chose Sococo over similar similar cloud-based collaboration tools." Rob Snevily TechCRUNCH columnist "Kudos to the Sococo team! They built this product to be an extension of your existing social media toolset. It replaces all of your old legacy online communication tools and gives you the ability to collaborate and communicate with those you like to collaborate with." Ryan Wellman Founder & CEO "We tried other services in the past, but found that they did not have the features that made us want to use them as everyday work tools. Sococo on the other hand, gave us the tools to collaborate on projects and most importantly
