Use Quiz Maker to create and manage multiple choice tests with quiz participants and teachers Use the admin panel to create new accounts for students and add user-defined password requirements Quiz Maker Demos: Quiz Maker for Mac Quiz Maker 1.9.0

Quiz Maker has a simple to use interface. The admin panel offers the possibility of creating new accounts for quiz participants and defining password requirements. Also, a simple way to communicate and synchronize student and teacher activities. The interface has three sections: the admin panel, the participant panel, and the scoreboard.

The admin panel can be accessed with the "Quiz Maker Admin" icon found in the upper right side of the participant panel. To create a new account, you'll have to enter a name and a password. These details will be stored in a text file, named "quiz admin.txt". The participant panel can be accessed from the admin panel or from the participant section. In this panel, teachers can give students a quick overview of their test. Teachers can also see the answers in the test and can also set the time limits. The scoreboard section is the place where you can communicate with teachers or a teacher can communicate with a group. A group can be created by selecting the group template and creating groups in the admin panel. Quiz Maker Quiz Maker 1.8.0 Quiz Maker was designed as an attempt to provide teachers with a convenient method of creating tests and quizzes for students. While there's no shortage of such utilities on the market, Quiz Maker appears to be promising in many aspects. It benefits from a rich array of features, behaves decently and carries out a favorable outcome for users who experiment with it. To sum up its features, Quiz Maker is able to generate tests of maximum 52 multiple choice questions, which can be entered and managed using an administrative panel. Also from this place, you can create new accounts for quiz participants by entering their username and a custom password. The admin section is password enabled, with the default login credentials located in a text file inside the installation folder. However, the admin account isn't necessarily singular, multiple such logins can be created, with custom usernames and passwords. Similar to the admin panel, the participant section also functions based on a login. The test can be launched right away (optionally in full screen) and is equipped with a timer (which
